Aim of funding:

The proposed research grant is intended to provide financial support for young researchers in preparing their master's thesis or doctoral thesis, for medical students in preparing their doctoral thesis, or for scientific or clinical employees in completing a publication of their own scientific project. The project should be closely related to Moyamoya angiopathy and aim for new scientific knowledge in the field of pathophysiology, genetics, diagnostics and therapy of Moyamoya angiopathy.

Requirements and scope of funding:

A certificate of the infrastructural possibilities for the implementation of the project by institute / hospital or project director is needed (PDF file). The proposed project is still ongoing and not completed at the beginning of the scholarship. The funding is provided for individual support (€ 2,400 up to 6,000) and may be supplemented with research material funding through an additional application (up to € 2,000).

Form of application:

The description of the project should be made in German or English and submitted as a PDF file. It should briefly describe the current state of research and any existing previous work on the topic (maximum 700 words). Furthermore, the project should be described in regard of background and methods (maximum 700 words) with description of the intended scientific benefit (maximum 700 words). A CV with all publications of the applicant is required (included in the single PDF file).
